GETTING READY FOR THE COOL WINTER WEATHER?

Make sure your heating system is ready too!

Most of the emergency calls that are received during the cold weather season could be easily avoided if a preventative maintenance agreement was in place. Therefore, do yourself a big favor and make sure your heating system is working properly in order to avoid the "COLD HOUSE" this winter, as well as unexpected repair costs. Please keep in mind that a preventative maintenance agreement will also assist in the prevention of fire risk and carbon monoxide poisoning.

Ask about our preventative maintenance plans that will save you money on your necessary safety tune-ups; as well as other products and services you may want and/or require in order to obtain the most comfortable and healthiest home that you deserve. There are many advantages of a preventative maintenance agreement, including asthma and allergy relief. If you or someone in your home suffers from asthma or allergies, you may find great relief from this service.

Just like your car, regular maintenance on your air conditioning equipment assists your system in performing at peak efficiency.

Ask us how to make the air in your home healthier, free from smoke and how to aide in fire prevention.

Trust your indoor comfort specialist to prepare your home for the winter season. The existing dirty or clogged filters that you may have will reduce both energy efficiency and air quality. In addition, we will make sure your furnace is clean, lubricated, and properly tuned, so it stays in tip-top shape for the winter months.
